

HYPERALLERGIC

Hyperallergic Fall 2023 New York Art Guide

A guide to this season's museum exhibitions and art events in New York City.

SculptureCenter

Barkley L. Hendricks, "Misc. Tyrone (Tyrone Smith)" (1976), oil and magna on linen canvas, 72 × 50 inches (© Barkley L. Hendricks; courtesy the Estate of Barkley L. Hendricks and Jack Shainman Gallery, New York)

In a city of great diversity, art plays a role in bringing us all together to consider the world anew. Art helps us imagine new possibilities and offers us moments of thoughtful reflection in these rapidly changing times.

Focusing on museums, art nonprofits, galleries, and community events, this guide is designed to help you navigate the world of contemporary art in New York City. We encourage you to explore the artistic happenings of our great city based on recommendations from our expert team, which has been covering the arts daily for over a decade.

Hyperallergic is proud to be based here, we love it here, and we can't wait for you to discover why.

—Hrag Vartanian, Editor-in-Chief, Co-founder

Opening in September

Devin T. Mays, "Picture, Weight" (2023), research image (courtesy the artist)

In Practice: Devin T. Mays

Empty cigarette packs, cement blocks, trash bags, and a deflated basketball have all made appearances in Devin T. Mays's arrangements of discarded objects. The artist is the focus of one of four solo exhibitions at Long Island City's SculptureCenter this fall.

SculptureCenter (sculpture-center.org)

44–19 Purves Street, Long Island City, Queens

Sept. 23–Dec. 11

Editors at Hyperallergic

9.1.23

<https://hyperallergic.com/842139/hyperallergic-fall-2023-new-york-art-guide/>