

artnet[®]

Editors' Picks: 10 Things to See in New York This Week

Galleries are on summer vacation, but there's still plenty of art to see in New York

By Caroline Goldstein — August 14, 2017

The original members of Clay Club frolicking in Staten Island. Image courtesy of SculptureCenter.

Each week, we search New York City for the most exciting, and thought-provoking, shows, screenings, and events. See them below.

Saturday, August 19

9. “Clay Club: Community Sculpture Studio” at the SculptureCenter

Founded in 1928, SculptureCenter was originally called the Clay Club, and every summer until 1939, the organization's artists and students would spend a day picnicking and building temporary sculptures on Staten Island. The Center is reviving that tradition on Saturday, and the public is welcome to come for music, food from local vendors, and 2,000 tons of clay to sculpt to your heart's content.

Location: Sculpture Center, 44-19 Purves Street, Long Island City

Price: Free

Time: 10 a.m.–2 p.m.