

12 Fun Things to Do in NYC This Weekend By T. Michelle Murphy, August 16, 2017

Shake it at a free donuts and dance party, play all day at a video game convention, take a margarita bar crawl and more things to do this weekend in NYC.

HANDS-ON ART

Clay Club

Feeling artistic? Dig your hands into 2,000 pounds of clay this Saturday at SculptureCenter, which was started by sculptor Dorothea Denslow as Clay Club in 1928. She would lead summer expeditions on Staten Island where her students would build giant temporary sculptures. And while the creations you'll be making, either freeform or at guided classes led by studio artists, plus live music and food from local favorites Hindu's Sandwiches, The Mill and Hibino LIC. Aug. 19, 10 a.m.-2 p.m., SculptureCenter, 44-19 Purves St., Long Island City, free, sculpture-center.org
