

Galerie

Editors' Picks:

7 Great Art and Design Events This Week

by Galerie Editors, September 16, 2018

This week, The Metropolitan Museum of Art launches the first comprehensive retrospective of Eugène Delacroix in North America, Peter Halley unveils his captivating environments devised for the interior of the modernist landmark Lever House in a project curated by Roya Sachs, and Printed Matter's beloved New York Art Book Fair returns to MoMA P.S.1. with buzzy pop-ups and hot-off-the-press publications by leading artists, institutions, and art-world publishers. Read on for Galerie's picks of shows not to miss this week.

Shigeo Kubota, River, 1971-81. Three-channel color video installation with steel trough, mirrors, motor, and water. Photo: Courtesy of the artist

2. 'Before Projection: Video Sculpture 1974-1995'

SculptureCenter

Dara Birnbaum, Diana Thater, and Nam June Paik are just some of the artists whose work is in this group show, which explores early cinematic and multimedia works by visual artists between the years 1974 and 1995. According to a statement by Mary Ceruti, executive director and chief curator of SculptureCenter, the show "charts a history of video art that is coextensive with some of the most important developments in sculpture in the late 20th century."

Where: SculptureCenter, 44-19 Purves Street, Long Island City

When: September 17–December 17. Hours: Thursday–Monday, 11 a.m.–6 p.m.

