FRIDAY, MARCH 15

Talk: “Vile Days with Gary Indiana and Bruce Hainley” at SculptureCenter

The recently released book Vile Days: The Village Voice Art Columns, 1985–1988 collects columns that Gary Indiana penned for the now-defunct publication the Village Voice, where his writings appeared steadily over the course of three years. Indiana’s columns, which could be irreverent and inspiring in equal measure, are now considered key documents of the era’s art scene in New York. To celebrate the book, Indiana will talk with critic Bruce Hainley, who edited the book and wrote its preface.

SculptureCenter, 44-19 Purves Street, Queens, 7 p.m. Free with RSVP
